A MESSAGE FROM COUNCILWOMAN TINA WARD-PUGH

National Librarian of the Year

The Library Journal, the country's premier library publication, has awarded Louisville Free Public Library Director Craig Buthod its Librarian of the Year Award for 2010. Buthod, nominated by a number of his peers throughout the country, is featured in a cover story in the January issue of Library Journal (www.libraryjournal.com/article/CA6713125.html) where he is cited for a series of successes. "As exciting and deeply gratifying as this is for me," said Buthod, "I stand here as merely a representative of the many staff, volunteers, patrons, board members, friends and colleagues who have helped and guided me as we have worked together to build a culture of success at all of our libraries."
